Subject: Is someone posting on Facebook pretending to be Allie Overstreet and Mark Supanich?
Importance: High

Allie and Mark:

I have thought the world of the two of you, and the last thing I have wanted is trouble with you.

Either someone is posting as you, or you are posting information that I know to be false based upon my telephone conversation and emails with Brenda Williamson. Brenda assures me that she hasn't spoken with you. Noah hates bologna. Noah is in a hospital and has not been seen by Allie and has not been eating bologna sandwiches. Brenda knew nothing about this "hoax" until this morning when she opened my email offering condolences and advising her of this possible hoax. She never cried, much less cried her eyes out. Allie never chewed me out for lying, and I have never posted anything that I knew to be false.

If this is a giant case of Internet fraud by impersonators, let's get the police involved. There is already a police report filed.

For now, we don't need to get into any discussions about anything other than, did you post the following or not:

1. Allie Overstreet: "Wow....that's pretty much my only reaction. Just wow. I guess my one comment chewing Bill out for lying, in his mind constitutes full on war and reason to try to hurt me. He purposely posts things he knows are false. He purposely posts things to get reactions from devoted followers. Insane. I know what I say and don't say, do and don't do. That man has lost his mind. You guys will see when he turns on YOU."
2. Allie Overstreet: "pfft....I saw your "Noah committed suicide" comment and panicked. I know Noah and his mother very well in real life. I called her immediately because I knew something wasn't right with your story. I had just spoken to them three hours prior. Sure enough, he is alive and well and she is in shock that you would post that. Do not play like I had anything to do with this. That is just cruel. I love Noah very much and know him personally. Brenda and Noah aren't even your followers. I talked them into filming with you, and she has only had minimal contact since Jeff City with you. She is not on fb very much, does not read your wall, and is not known by your followers. She did not do this. And a man in Montana wasn't watching young boys in Missouri eating. I told him Noah was alive because your post caused a lot of people to pray, cry, and mourn, including Mark in Montana. It was only right I let him know that Noah was not dead. And really, Bill, what if he was dead? You think it is okay to post that stuff without even knowing if it was okay with his mom? She is crying her eyes out and cursing up a storm because you knew her son IS suicidal from CPS. My God Bill, have some compassion. And try asking people before you go saying their son is dead. I know Brenda and she did not send you that. I certainly did not send you that. You are out of line. I have done nothing to you, and have been kind in explaining why I am not here anymore. Why would you put my name in a post suggesting I sent this sick piece of garbage? Say your sorry for God's sake, instead of accusing everybody for YOUR mess ups. Noah Williamson is alive and well. Leave him alone."

3. Mark Supanich: "There is a recent Post on Lawless America that Noha is dead I know for a fact that he is alive and well. He just had a bologna sandwich . last I checked dead people don't eat. Whoever is spreading this false information should be ashamed of themselves. At least check your stories for facts before devastating friends and families with untruths. Please share this with all your friends to put a stop to this!!"

If you would be so kind, simply reply as to each of items 1, 2, and 3 -- Yes you posted or No you didn't post.

If the answer is No, then let me know if you want to help find out who did.

Please advise,

Bill Windsor

P.S. I am sending this a second time from a different email address and a different computer to be sure it reaches you.
